GAME PREVIEW

STEELERS VS. RAVENS

WEEK 14 | SUNDAY, DEC. 7, 2025

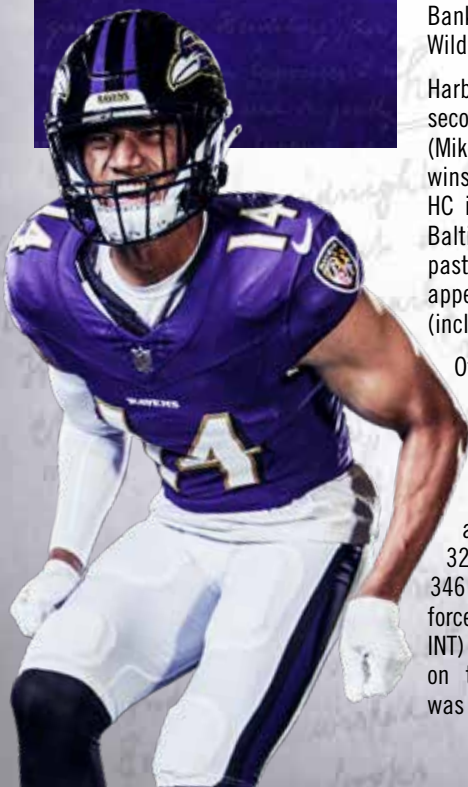

CB Chidobe Awuzie

QUOTH THE RAVEN

"Objectively, a lot rides on this [Pittsburgh] game coming up and pretty much every game from here on out. They remember what you do in December. We have a big December, and yes, I think we have the guys to do it. We have the mentality to do it. It's just a matter of doing it."

— S Kyle Hamilton
on the Ravens' outlook

Winners in five of their past six games, the Baltimore Ravens (6-6) host the Pittsburgh Steelers (6-6) at M&T Bank Stadium for a crucial AFC North battle to determine first place in the division.

The Ravens' remaining schedule consists of the following: vs. Pittsburgh, at Cincinnati, vs. New England, at Green Bay and at Pittsburgh. The Steelers' next five games include: at Baltimore, vs. Miami, at Detroit, at Cleveland and vs. Baltimore.

Baltimore is 25-33 vs. Pittsburgh all time in regular season play, including a 15-19 mark under head coach John Harbaugh. In home games, the Ravens are 14-15, posting an 8-9 record with Harbaugh at the helm. (In 2024, Baltimore defeated Pittsburgh at M&T Bank Stadium in both a Week 16 and Wild Card playoff game.)

Harbaugh (18th season) is the NFL's second-longest-tenured head coach (Mike Tomlin - 19), with his 191 total wins ranking as the 13th most by a HC in NFL history. Harbaugh has led Baltimore to 12 playoff berths in the past 17 seasons and to six postseason appearances in the last seven years (including three straight).

Of the past 38 overall Ravens-Steelers games, 28 have been decided by one score, with 19 of those coming by 3 or fewer points.

Last week in a Thanksgiving Night affair, the Ravens fell to Cincinnati, 32-14. Though Baltimore produced 346 yards of offense, the Bengals forced five turnovers (4 fumbles & 1 INT) and held the Ravens to 3-of-10 on third down. Baltimore's defense was mostly stout, limiting Cincy to

NUMBERS TO NOTE

38 Number of matchups (including today) of the John Harbaugh and Mike Tomlin coaching rivalry. Only George Halas and Curly Lambeau, who coached against each other in 49 games between 1921-53, have battled more times as head coaches in NFL history.

2 Tight ends in NFL history (Mark Andrews - Bal. & Travis Kelce - KC) to own a franchise's receiving "Triple Crown" (career catches, yards & TDs). Andrews achieved this feat in Week 13 and now has 473 receptions for 5,862 yards and 56 TDs.

.833 Lamar Jackson's overall win percentage (20-4 record) in the month of December, which is the second-best mark by a QB in NFL history (Roger Staubach - .850).

382 Consecutive games the Ravens have scored, which is the NFL's longest active streak and the third-longest streak in league history (SF - 420, 1977-2004; Den. - 394, 1992-2017).

1-of-6 in red zone efficiency and 6 FGs, but couldn't overcome circumstances where the Bengals also won the T.O.P. battle, 38:46 to 21:14. Meanwhile, the Steelers lost to Buffalo on Sunday at home, 26-7.

MARLON

THE TURNOVER TECHNICIAN

By Rachel Richards

AP Photos/Lynn Sladky

Winning the turnover battle strongly correlates to winning games in the National Football League, and the 2025 Baltimore Ravens are a primary example of that. Stopping their opponent's momentum and giving the ball back to the dynamic offense has been pivotal to the Ravens' resurgence to a 6-6 record, and cornerback Marlon Humphrey has certainly contributed to the turning of the tide.

Off the field, Humphrey entertains fans with his charismatic social media presence, but the minute No. 44 sits down in the meeting room or laces up his cleats and hits the grass, the true competitor comes out.

Humphrey has been a takeaway machine ever since being drafted by Baltimore in 2017. In games where he has recorded either an interception or fumble recovery, the Ravens are 20-4, including 2-0 in 2025 after a game-sealing fumble recovery in Week 9 and a third-quarter interception the following Sunday.

But Humphrey's knack for sticking his hand in and knocking the ball loose isn't a new development. With eight punchouts in 2020, he set a franchise record for most opponent fumbles forced in a single season, and with 17 across his career, he ranks first among all active defensive backs. His physical impact is evident to both coaches and players alike.

"He's a nice guy — great and goofy guy off the field — but when he hits that field and puts those pads on, he's going to go 100 miles per hour," defensive coordinator Zach Orr explained. "He's not going to care who he hits."

"He always tends to step up in critical moments, so we're glad to have him back out there," inside linebacker Roquan Smith stated after Humphrey's return from injury in the Week 12 victory.

Driven by their desire to be the NFL's top unit, Humphrey and Co. aren't satisfied just yet, knowing that takeaways are contagious and come in bunches. In each of their six wins this season, the Ravens' defense has registered at least one forced fumble and one interception.

"This team is really starting to come together," Humphrey expressed. "It's a pleasure to be on this team. It's a pleasure to get coached by the coaches. It's good energy in the building, and it just seems like we're all working towards something."

Now in Year Nine, Humphrey is long removed from being the rookie first-round pick out of Alabama, having become a leader in the defensive backs room and the second-longest tenured Raven on the roster, behind left tackle Ronnie Stanley. His extensive experience has given him a new perspective on football and life outside the locker room, one that can also be compared to the fundamentals of forcing turnovers in the NFL.

Just like punching the ball out or high-pointing a pick in the secondary, Humphrey understands that getting the little details right and going the extra mile are crucial. Typically one of the first players in the practice facility each morning, he often arrives before the sun rises and encourages teammates to join him for breakfast or a lift before mandatory meetings start.

"We're trying to create an environment where everything matters," Humphrey explained. "Arriving at 6:01 a.m., does it really matter? Yes, everything matters. Accountability is going to be the key to the season."

So, with their eyes set on a deep playoff push, the Ravens know their season depends on executing the little details in order to achieve their big-picture goals. Humphrey will surely continue to have a hand in what lies ahead for these Ravens.

K TYLER LOOP EVERMORE

Rookie kicker Tyler Loop has quickly become a Ravens Flock fan favorite, and it's not just because of his last name, which has become the perfect chant following his field goals. The 24-year-old Texas native and sixth-round draft pick out of Arizona has a 91.7 field goal percentage, making him one of the most accurate kickers in the league this year. Get to know more about him below:

How does it feel when you hear the 'Looooop' chant after you make a field goal?

It's a lot of fun. It's kind of caught on around the building now, too. Sometimes, I will see teammates around, and I'll say what's up to them and they will go, "Looooop" as they walk by. That's really fun. And then obviously, during the games, it's a blast. When I make a field goal, and I hear the whole stadium going "Looooop," it's really cool. It's been a fun part of being a Raven. It's been fun to be embraced by the Ravens Flock in that way. It's nice to be with a team that has such supportive and awesome fans.

You recently got engaged. How is the wedding planning going? Are you involved in that process at all?

I am involved, but my fiancée, Julia, is killing it. I am in charge of the wedding playlist and rehearsal dinner. She is taking care of everything else. She's killed it – she's done such a good job. Every time I offer to help, she's always like, "Nope, I've got it!"

What is the best piece of advice that you've been given?

Read your Bible and memorize scripture.

What are your favorite sports teams to follow?

I follow University of Arizona – because I played there – but growing up, I was a half Arkansas and half Texas fan.

If you didn't play football, what do you think you would be doing?

I think I would play soccer with Liverpool FC.

Who is your role model? What motivates you?

I have a lot of role models. Blake, who is one of my really close friends and is about two or three years older than me. My dad is another one. There are a lot of the older men – wiser guys – in my life from my church in Arizona. They are people that I look up to a lot.

What is something on your bucket list (non-football related)?

I want to go to Banff, Canada.

What is your favorite movie, and who are some of your favorite musical artists?

My favorite comfort movie is "Cars." If I am putting something on that I know I am going to enjoy, I will put on "Cars." My favorite good movie would be "Good Will Hunting." My favorite musical artists include George Strait, Zac Brown Band, Riley Green and The Worship Initiative. My favorite band is The Eagles.

What are some of your hobbies/ something you like to do in your free time?

I like to read, play video games and play viola. I have played the viola for 12 years.

What is a fact about you that you think Ravens fans would find difficult to believe?

I know American Sign Language. I took four years of ASL in high school and took four semesters in college.

COMMUNITY SHOWCASE ON RAVENSWALK

Today's Community Showcase featured the Maryland Food Bank. For more information on the organization, please visit: mdfoodbank.org

Funded by the NFL and Amazon's TNF For Good, prior to Thanksgiving, the Baltimore Ravens surprised the Maryland Food Bank with a $20,000 donation.

MARYLAND FOOD BANK SUPPORT

In November, the Baltimore Ravens launched their annual #FeedTheFlock food collection efforts, in partnership with Safeway and the Maryland Food Bank (MFB). This partnership came during a critical time, with the holidays approaching and one in three Marylanders facing food insecurity – over 2 million people in our state.

As the largest charitable food assistance provider in Maryland, the food bank supports a network of nearly 800 partners – food pantries, emergency shelters, schools and senior residences. Last year, the food bank's statewide food assistance network distributed more than 43 million meals, the equivalent of 119,000 meals per day.

At today's game, the Ravens are hosting the 30th annual Gameday Family Food and Funds Drive collection. To learn more and make a donation, visit the Ravens Food and Funds Drive Team webpage or scan the Maryland Food Bank QR code (below) through December 8.

FEED THE FLOCK!

IN OUR COMMUNITY

11/14 The Ravens hosted their third Purple Friday Caravan of the 2025 season. Ravens Cheerleaders, Poe and members of the Marching Ravens surprised four schools across Anne Arundel County with a pep rally.

11/23 The Ravens and T. Rowe Price honored the 2025 winners of the Community Quarterback Award. The award recognizes individuals who exhibit leadership, dedication and commitment to bettering their local communities.

11/24 Ravens' staff hosted a Thanksgiving celebration and turkey distribution at Charles Carroll Barrister Elementary. All students from the school received cupcakes, hot chocolate and had the opportunity to interact with Ravens Cheerleaders.
